

Work dilemmas

1. You have been offered a promotion to become a manager. This is a job that you really like and you have wanted it for a while, but it means you will have to move out of your home town and away from your family. What would you do?
2. You think that one of your colleagues has been taking things home from the office. They aren't expensive, but you still think it's wrong. What would you do?
3. You have found out that your company has a factory in a poor country and children are forced to work there in very bad conditions. What would you do?
4. Two of your colleagues are competing for the same job. One of them is a good friend, but doesn't work so hard. The other is not very friendly, but is very good at their job. Your boss asks you who you think should get the promotion. What would you do?
5. Your company has started making everyone work overtime. You get paid for the work, but now you have hardly any free time. What would you do?